

North Shore
Heart Research Foundation

fundraising manager

- Prestigious hospital environment
- Join the fight against Australia's biggest killer
- Generous package and parking

The North Shore Heart Research Foundation raises almost $4m annually for Cardiology Research and the lifestyle education programs of the Cardiovascular Education Centre at the Royal North Shore Hospital. It also funds two Chairs of Cardiology in association with the University of Sydney.

Reporting to the CEO and managing a small team you will guide and grow the Foundation's fundraising strategy via telemarketing and direct mail generated donations and bequests. You will also need to drive new strategies focusing on major gifts.

You have a track record in conducting annual appeals, regular giving and in soliciting bequests and major gifts from individuals and in gaining corporate donors. You will also possess developed database, staff and supplier management skills. Alternatively, you are from the corporate sector with experience in high value non-tangible quality sales and/or direct marketing.

If you have what it takes to fundraise for the fight against heart disease then phone Richard Green on 02 8243 0570 or forward your CV to
