

national communications manager

- Australia's leading environmental advocacy organisation
- Lead a national team to implement integrated campaigns
- 12-month contract

The Wilderness Society (TWS) has been in existence since the 1976 Franklin River Campaign. The Society is dedicated to the protection and restoration of wilderness and wildlife in precious areas across all Australia's territories, including the wilderness of Antarctica.

Managing a national team, you will consolidate and implement strategic communications externally and across the organisation to support campaigns, membership and fundraising activities.

You will have extensive experience in managing internal and external relations, communications and/or public affairs. You have previously managed creative production teams and worked with a range of stakeholders to drive cutting edge communications' strategies and products. A commitment to wilderness and environmental protection is a must.

If you are keen to use your strong interpersonal and communications skills to help protect our environment for future generations, ring Olivia Passmore on 03 9225 5100, or email your resume to cv@ngorecruitment.com, quoting job #28677.
