Job Futures is a leading provider of employment services through a national network of community employment and training organisations. It strives to offer job-seekers real opportunities to find sustainable and meaningful work.

You will work with member organisations to strengthen service delivery and to develop and maintain business. You will actively promote the Job Futures 'brand' and be accountable to the Board for strategic planning, leadership, resource management and achieving performance and financial targets.

You are an inspiring leader with a demonstrated commitment to social outcomes, preferably gained in a not for profit or membership based organisation. You possess high level management skills and commercial acumen which you will apply to the development and delivery of services. Knowledge of employment services and extensive high level networks, particularly with government and relevant agencies, would be highly regarded.
