

community engagement manager

- Ground-breaking housing project
- Rare leadership opportunity
- Excellent salary package

Port Phillip Housing Association (PPHA) is an award winning and rapidly growing independent not for profit, developing and managing affordable community housing for people on low to moderate incomes throughout Melbourne.

This role will lead the community planning and consultation process for the recently awarded Ashwood – Chadstone Gateway Redevelopment Project. You will be responsible for communication and engagement with stakeholders including the community, State and Local Government, established local agencies, as well as PPHA's team delivering the project.

You are an experienced manager with a demonstrated ability in community development. Your well developed project management skills will ensure that both PPHA and the community's objectives are delivered successfully.

If you are a passionate senior manager who wants to advance your career within one of the most innovative and progressive housing associations in Australia then forward your CV to cv@ngorecruitment.com quoting reference 29852 or phone Richard Green on 03 9225 5100.
