

director community health

- Influential role in HIV and GLBT health
- Global leader in health promotion

ACON has achieved a world-wide reputation for HIV prevention, care, support and policy development. ACON also develops programs promoting the health and wellbeing of the gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender (GLBT) community.

Reporting to the CEO this role is responsible for the continuing development and long term sustainability of health programs including in the areas of HIV prevention, sexual health, lesbian health, anti-violence and alcohol and other drugs. This complex role requires a strong leader who instinctively engages with community and expert stakeholders.

You are a senior manager of people and programs with extensive experience in HIV and GLBT health. You have an expert understanding of the principles and practices of health promotion, social marketing and community development.

If improving the health and wellbeing of the NSW GLBT community is important to you then contact Richard Green on 02 8243 0570 or forward your CV to cv@ngorecruitment.com quoting #29819
