

Enhance the life of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people through unification.

Link-Up (QLD) Aboriginal Corporation, based in Brisbane, exists to enhance the life of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people by reuniting those who have experienced enforced separation from their families and communities through adoption, fostering, removal and institutionalisation.

chief executive officer

In this hands-on but strategic role you will lead Link-Up (QLD) through a capacity building phase to better serve indigenous people seeking reunification. You will report to an engaged board, support an excellent team, and develop effective partnerships with government bodies, indigenous communities and other service providers.

Key priorities will be to grow the organisation to meet the increased demand for counselling services and post-reunion support groups, and to further develop strong governance and office systems and processes.

Your outstanding leadership skills, combined with your strong sense of justice and purpose, provide an excellent platform to mobilise your team. Your ability to develop and maintain a network of diverse stakeholders to enhance service delivery and referral pathways for clients is essential. You have a solid track record managing finances and developing budgets. You will preferably have formal qualifications in social sciences, humanities or finance and business. Ref: 29648

As a key member of Link-Up (QLD), you will coordinate the Reunion Program ensuring clients receive effective services and a positive experience. You will lead a small team of caseworkers in Brisbane and liaise regularly with counsellors and other stakeholders in remote offices around Queensland.

You excel at developing small teams of social workers through careful management of service delivery standards, workloads, and training. You have an excellent ability to communicate effectively and credibly with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Island people, with demonstrated case management skills within Indigenous communities.
